The musical score consists of four systems of staves. The first system has three staves: a grand staff (treble and bass clef) and a single bass staff. The second system has three staves: a grand staff and a single bass staff. The third system has three staves: a grand staff and a single bass staff. The fourth system has three staves: a grand staff and a single bass staff. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings. Performance instructions are written above and below the staves.

The first system of music consists of two systems of piano accompaniment. Each system has a grand staff with a treble and bass clef. The key signature is one sharp (F#). The first system features a complex, fast-moving melody in the right hand, while the left hand provides a steady, rhythmic accompaniment. The second system continues this pattern, with the right hand playing a series of chords and the left hand maintaining a consistent bass line.

The second system of music includes piano accompaniment and two additional parts. The piano part continues with a similar pattern to the first system. The 'Ch flute' part (Chamber flute) enters in the middle of the system, playing a melodic line. The 'Sw harp' part (Swedish harp) enters in the middle of the system, playing a harmonic accompaniment. The piano part continues to provide a steady accompaniment.

The third system of music consists of a single system of piano accompaniment. It features a grand staff with a treble and bass clef. The key signature is one sharp (F#). The right hand plays a complex, fast-moving melody, while the left hand provides a steady, rhythmic accompaniment.
