ARGUMENT.

HENRI, MARQUIS OF CORNEVILLE, who has been since childhood, owing to civil war, an exile, returns to his ancestral home on the occasion of the great annual fair which is being celebrated in the village that receives its name from his chateau. It is one of the old-fashioned Norman villages of the seventeenth century.

In the First Act, the curtain rises on an assemblage of village gossips, discussing scandal and small talk. SERPOLETTE, a cross between Fanchon and Boulotte, is the topic of conversation among the belles of Corneville. She comes in just in time to turn the tables on the others, and changes their taunts into expressions of rage. GASPARD, an old miser, wishes to marry his niece, GERMAINE, to the principal magistrate of the district, the BAILLI. This arrangement does not suit GERMAINE, nor a young fisherman named JEAN GRENICHEUX, who pretends that he has saved her life from drowning on a certain occasion. To escape from the power of old GASPARD, GERMAINE takes advantage of the privileges of the fair (a similar scene to that in the first act of "Martha"), and becomes the servant of the Marquis. Her example is followed by GRENICHEUX and SERPOLETTE.

The Second Act is taken up with the supernatural visitors who have made the Castle of Corneville so long an object of dread. HENRI determines to find out the real character of these ghostly appearances, and discovers that it is all the work of the old miser, who has concealed his treasures in the chateau. The discovery drives Gaspard crazy, especially when he hears the bells of the chateau ringing for the first time since the flight of the old Marquis.

The Third Act represents the grand fete given in honor of the return of HENRI to his ancestral home. SERPOLETTE arrives as a Marchioness, as some papers, found in the chateau, indicate that she is the lost heiress. The miser, however, recovers his reason, and shows that GERMAINE is the true Marchioness. A love Duet between her and HENRI, and the reconciliation of all the parties, bring the romantic story to a close.

ACT I.

[The stage represents a Forest Scene near the village of Corneville. At the middle of the scene is a fountain somewhat to the right of the spectator. At the first entrance, left, is a tall post, bearing a bill on which is inscribed in large letters, "Corneville Market, Grand Hiring of Maid-servants, Coachmen and Domestics." Enter Peasants and village maidens.]

The musical score for orchestra and choir on page 31 features six staves of music. The top two staves represent soprano voices, the third is for bass, the fourth for alto, the fifth for tenor, and the bottom is for bass. The music includes lyrics such as "find..... what's to your mind.", "dim.", "pizz.", and "f". The score is written in a traditional musical notation style with various dynamics and rests.

(Exeunt Omnes except SERPOLETTE, who hides herself. She then comes forward and signs to the other peasant girls to join her. They advance with hesitation, and form a circle around her.

SERP. Oh, come now! you must not take a little sharp talk too much to heart, girls. You know you began it. But it's all over, and I'm not the one to bear malice. Well, I admit I was foolish enough at one time to allow this miserable, good-for-nothing fellow, Jean Grenicheux, who couldn't speak the truth, if he tried, to keep company with me. Of course, when that horrid old miser, Gaspard, brought his chalky-faced, simpering niece, Germaine, into the house, Grenicheux found it more profitable to dance attendance on an heiress than to be true to a poor, friendless girl. But, let me tell you, he's wasting his time there.

GERTRUDE. You do not seem to have a particularly good opinion of Father Gaspard.

SERP. Good opinion? Why, bless your silly heart! he is such a repulsive creature, that I often wish'd he had never found me in the fields when I was a baby!

MANETTE. Where did Germaine spring from?

SERP. Oh, some vulgar stock, I suppose! Now, as for me, do you know, girls, that I often dream that royal blood flows in these veins, and that princely parents are hunting all over the world for me!

ALL. Royal blood! A princess! Ha, ha, ha!

SERP. You will see, some time or other! Listen.

(Enter GASPARD and the BAILLI.)

SERP. What do you think of the grand wedding, that is to come off soon? Little Germaine, hardly out of her pinafores, and that precious old booby of a Bailli, who is as old as Methusaleh, and looks like a scarecrow.

BAILLI to GASPARD. Well, truly, such impertinence!

GASP. You wretched foundling, and good for nothing girl! I'll make you feel the weight of my cane.

SERP. I know you would if you could catch me, but you shall not have the chance. Now for a race, go as you please. (Exit, pursued by GASPARD.)

BAILLI. Don't excite yourself, Gaspard. I care not what envious tongues may say, as long as the fair Germaine is to be my bride.

GERTRUDE. His bride? January and May. Listen, girls, to the venerable lover, with one foot in the grave.

GASP. (reentering.) Silence, you pack of scandal mongers; be off at once, or beware the consequences!

(Exeunt Village girls laughing.)

BAILLI. They are not to blame, after all, as long as your niece, Germaine, encourages them.

GASP. Why, you must be mistaken. My niece would not associate with such hussies.

BAILLI. Well, I know one thing, and that is, she never loses an opportunity to encourage the attentions of that wretched fisherman Grenicheux.

GASP. Pshaw! You should give her credit for more taste. Why, he serves as a butt of ridicule for the village.

BAILLI. You forget that he rescued her from drowning once, and gratitude, you know.

GASP. That counts for nothing. He was fishing, my niece fell off the rocks into the sea, and he could not help catching something. Any one might have done the same.

BAILLI. At all events, don't forget your promise, Gaspard. Germaine is to be mine, or a gentle hint to the authorities about certain goings on of yours.

GASP. (aside.) Heavens! can he guess? No, no, it cannot be (aloud). Your language is quite an enigma to me, I assure you.

BAILLI. Indeed! For instance, your administration of the affairs of the former Marquis of Corneville, who has been an exile for so many years.

GASP. My administration defies investigation. I am ready to meet the Marquis, or his son, if ever they return, and render a strict account.

BAILLI. You are very confident and I am glad of it. Now, these phantoms that haunt the castle.

GASP. I am not the guardian of spirits. If they wish to roam around nightly, how can I help it?

BAILLI. Well, I shall see about it and shall search the chateau.

GASP. Don't, I beg of you. Leave the ghosts in their own quarters, and do not set them loose in the village. What is the use, now, in being over zealous. Germaine shall be yours, and I'll make preparations for a hasty wedding.

BAILLI. That just suits me (GRENICHEUX heard within). Ah! here comes that miserable fisherman.

GASP. Leave me to settle his pretensions with this cane.

BAILLI. No, no, we must have no scandal here. Come. (Exeunt)

(Enter GRENICHEUX, with fishing nets, &c.)

GRENICHEUX. (advancing.) You heard me, Mademoiselle.

GERM. Perhaps so. But I was looking for my uncle, and not you.

GREN. Indeed! The first time I ever knew, the old skinflint could sing. I thought that the chink of gold was the only music he favored.

GERM. No matter what he likes, he is my guardian.

GREN. To be exchanged for another soon, I hear.

GERM. Well, that is news for me.

GREN. They say you are going to marry that old Bailli.

GERM. I cannot help what they say, nor you, for believing all you hear.

GREN. Of course, in presence of such a wealthy suitor, poor Grenicheux will be soon forgotten.

GERM. And if so, I am at perfect liberty to make a choice.

GREN. Don't forget, that you owe your life to me.

GERM. You take good care not to let me forget.

GREN. I have the best right to you.

GERM. I cannot admit your reasoning. I wish to be my own mistress.

GREN. Until old Gaspard brings you up to the altar, to marry Bailli, old enough to be your grandfather.

GERM. You are talking nonsense! Do not fear, I shall not forget my vow.

(Cries of people within.)

GERN. (going to back.) What is all this commotion about?

GERM. (going to back.) Why, what a strange looking man, and a queer looking dress. No wonder he has a crowd after him.

(Enter HENRI, in Mexican costume, followed by villagers.)

HENRI. Well, such inquisitive people, I declare. Please moderate your curiosity. It may be a rather strange costume in your eyes but you must admit, a highly picturesque one. Just the thing for a figure like this. Well, to satisfy your curiosity, pretty maidens, permit me to introduce myself as one from the other world.

VILLAGE GIRLS. (screaming.) A ghost! a ghost!

HENRI. Well no, rather too substantial for that. The other world is America, where I lived among the savages.

GERM. Do all the savages dress like you?

HENRI. Bless your pretty face, no. The savages paint as the great ladies do in France, and have the same affection for other people's hair.

GEETRUEDE. Please, tell us all about them.

HENRI. My little beauty, you must really excuse me now.

ALL. We must hear the story now. (All crowd around.)

HENRI. Really, young people, you will spoil this costume. Please, permit me to suffer Messieurs the savages to rest for the present, as I wish to do.

GERM. You are a stranger here, Monsieur.

HENRI. Yes, a wandering seaman. I left my bark at Honfleur and intend to return immediately to my gallant crew. I trust your curiosity being now satisfied, you will answer my question. What do you call that chateau, whose towers I saw rising above the tree-tops as I came along.

GERM. The chateau of Corneville, which has been closed against the world for twenty years. It is haunted by ghosts.

HENRI. How romantic! a haunted chateau! I have heard of such things, but this is the first opportunity I have had to form the acquaintance of a genuine ghost. I shall start at once for the chateau.

GERM. (detaining him.) Oh, sir, you know not what a terrible danger you would encounter. Do not, I beg of you, brave the anger of demons.

HENRI. Sweet lady, have I not braved danger before? Have I not seen—

ALL. (crowding.) Oh! tell us. You have seen—

HENRI. Nothing. Why, some living beings are worse than spirits. Bah! your ghosts are masquerading knaves.

GERM. Oh, sir, if you had seen the windows of the chateau lighted up by unearthly hands, and phantoms flitting across the illuminated halls. No one has ever unlocked the doors of the chateau.

HENRI. Hence this ghostly legend.

GERM. There is another legend about the chateau.

HENRI. Tell me of it, I pray. I am very fond of legends.

GERM. It says that when one of the old family of nobles, that formerly dwelt in Corneville returns to claim his ancestral home, the chimes of the chateau, which have been so long silent shall sound once more. Listen to the legend.

GER. That old Gaspard ought to be ashamed of himself, to treat poor Germaine in such a brutal manner!

ALL. Shame! Shame!

GREN. (Coming forward.) Is there anything the matter, my dear?

GER. Yes; you'll find it out, if the Bailli or Gaspard lay hands on you!

GREN. Oh, save me! Save me! What shall I do?

GER. You have got Germaine into a nice pickle. Old Gaspard swears he'll lock her up!

GREN. Oh, I promise never to meet her again. (Cries within.) Here they are after me! Help! Help! (Exit GRENICHEUX.)

(Enter NOTARY, REGISTRAR, ASSESSOR and Attendants.)

NOT. Come, girls, do not loiter here; but go and join the other villagers in the grand procession. Hasten, or you will be too late.

(Exeunt Village Girls.)

NOT. The timid little dears! Be still, my fluttering heart! Now, gentleman, I wish you to bear in mind that in consequence of the unaccountable disappearance of the Bailli, on me rests the responsibility of opening the fair of Corneville. I wish, therefore, that all due respect be paid to the dignity of my office.

ALL. (Bowing.) Yes, noble sir.

NOT. A little lower, gentlemen: bend your backs a little more there; my dignity is duly honored. Now to your places. Do not run in that manner, like untrained school-boys; but in this manner, with becoming gravity and respect. Now, hand me my wand of office. Compose your looks with proper solemnity. Admit the servants, and let us hear what they have to say.

(Enter Procession of Villagers.)

No. 9.

CHORUS AND ENSEMBLE.

Allegro Moderato.

(Entrance of Chorus.)

The musical score for the Finale, No. 9, Chorus and Ensemble, features four systems of music for two staves (treble and bass). The key signature is F major (one sharp), and the time signature is common time (indicated by '4'). The first system starts with a dynamic 'p' (piano). The second system begins with a melodic line in the treble staff, followed by a bassoon-like instrument in the bass staff. The third system continues with the same instruments. The fourth system concludes with a vocal entry in the bass staff, followed by a piano dynamic 'cres - - cen - - do.'

ENTR' ACTE.

A hall in the chateau of Corneville. In the front of the stage, at left of spectator, two large windows, concealed by tapestry curtains. Opposite, on the right side, at front, a little practical door in the wainscoting. On either side are chandliers, in which are six candles nearly consumed. Further up, two large windows open at the right on a gallery which leads outside to the river, and at the left, on another conducting to the other parts of the chateau. Near the windows and the gallery on the left, at the back, is the figure of a warrior in iron armor, mounted on a rolling chariot. A table and chairs of the period are on the stage; there is also a piece of tapestry, representing a hunt in the time of Henri II. When the tapestry is drawn aside, a second hall is seen which is covered with dust and cobwebs. In this appartement, which extends to the very back of the stage, stand four pedestals surmounted with warriors in iron uniform. The first pedestal at the left has lost its figure, which is that to be found in the first appartement, mounted on a chariot.

HENRI. Yes, mine. Henri de Corneville, returned to claim his own:

BAILLI. Most wonderful! I am delighted to hear it!

SERP. The captain a marquis! Can it be?

HENRI. Come, sir, is this the way you attend to your duties? Allowing these venerable walls to be made the sport of graceless mountebanks?

BAILLI. My lord, I assure you—

HENRI. What have you to say for yourself, sir?

BAILLI. Those scandal-loving villagers have driven me almost crazy.

GERM. Please, good ghosts, spare us this time!

SERP. (Looking up.) As I live, there is Germaine!

GERM. Why, Serpolette, how came you here?

BAILLI. Little Germaine in the chateau!

HENRI. Yea, she is a brave girl, and one not afraid of ghosts.

HENRI. Silence, sir ! Have you anything to say about these so-called ghosts ?

BAILLI. They do not come within the scope of my official duties.

GERM. Here's one on rollers. (Pushes armed figure forward.)

HENRI. There's nothing unreal about this one.

SERP. Here are candles that have been lighted recently.

HENRI. We are coming at the truth. Now, who attends to these candles ?

GREN. His satanic majesty, of course

HENRI. It is all knavery, we shall see. Come—to work ! Here is a curtain, perhaps something may be concealed behind it. (Raises arras hangings and discovers hall with armed statues.)

GREN. (falling on his knees.) There they are ! Save me ! Save me .

HENRI. Peace, fool ! They are the arms of my noble ancestors.

The musical score consists of four staves of music. The top staff is for the Sopranos (Serp. Germ.), the second for the Tenors (Grenicheux), the third for the Basses (Le Bailli), and the bottom staff is for the Bassoon (Bass.). The music is in 12/8 time, with a key signature of one sharp. The vocal parts sing in unison, while the bassoon provides harmonic support. The lyrics describe silent heroes from the past and a child watching over a line. The bassoon part features rhythmic patterns and sustained notes.

HENRI. Pahaw! Here is the explanation of this wonderful mystery. There can be only one entrance for these, so-called, ghosts to my chateau. They come from the river side. No one can know anything about our coming here. We arrived when the moon was hidden behind a cloud. Now let a guard be placed at every door.

GERM. Excuse me, my lord, but here is a door we have not seen before. There is a key in it.

HENRI. Thanks, my dear. Let me investigate the mystery. (Exit HENRI.)

SERP. I wonder what kind of ghosts are in there?

BAILLI. I don't believe in ghosts. Where are they?

GERN. Look there! Save me! Save me! (Enter HENRI, covered with a sheet.)

HENRI. Well, what nonsense! Here is some of your ghostly trumpery. By the way, I found this tin box which may contain some important documents. By Jove, what is this? An official document! Please, Monsieur le Bailli, read it.

BAILLI. (Reading.) "My dear Gaspard"—

SERP AND GERM. What! The old miser?

BAILLI. (Reading.) "I am obliged to fly from France. My infant daughter I confide to your care. Bring her up as a simple peasant girl, as I fear much that my enemies, were they to know that she was my child, would kill her. My dear Gaspard, do all for her you can, and when I return I shall repay you an hundred fold."

(Signed.)

"HENRI, MARQUIS OF LUCENAY.

"May 16th, 1667."

SERP. One moment! I am convinced I am his child! I was found by Gaspard, and the only child he ever found, on the date mentioned. I am the long-lost child. I am the Marchioness. Look at the date.

SERP. Why, how can there be any doubt about the matter? Gaspard never had a baby besides your humble servant.

GREN. For heaven's sake, your Highness, let me go home. I see a ghost in every wave of the curtains.

HENRI. You miserable effigy of a man! Listen, my gallant fellows—take care of this wretched poltroon, and if he utters one cry, pitch him into the river!

GREN. Oh, what a fate is mine!

HENRI. Now, Serpolette. (Sailors hustle GRENICHEUX about, and carry him away.)

SERP. "Serpolette," my lord! Such undue familiarity! The "Marchioness," probably, you meant to say.

HENRI. Mademoiselle, I stand corrected,—the "Marchioness," of course! Now, would you be so kind as to retire to yonder tapestry room for a few minutes, and look over the records of your family?

SERP. Certainly, my lord,—with you as company.

HENRI. I have other business to attend to.

SERP. But a Marchioness all alone in a haunted room—

HENRI. Armed with the records of your noble birth.

SERP. True; very true. But, suppose some ghost should make love to me?

HENRI. Ask him his pedigree—he will soon vanish.

SERP. Well, then, my lord, I shall retire for the present to read the records of my noble family. I shall leave you here with this young person. I believe, they call her Germaine. "Serpolette," indeed! "Marchioness," I say, and don't you forget it!

(Exit SERPOLETTE.)

GERM. Why, my lord, all are gone, and we are all alone.

HENRI. Well, suppose so. A brave little heart like yours fears nothing. Come, tell me about this marriage of yours, with that old, broken-down Bailli.

GERM. It was a false report. Such a marriage could never take place. Besides, there was Jean Grenicheux.

HENRI. What! that booby? For goodness' sake, what right had he to interfere?

GERM. My lord, he has an influence over me on the score of gratitude. He saved my life once, by rescuing me from the sea, after I fell from the rocks, a mile or so from the village. Although I do not love him, I must be grateful.

HENRI. (Aside.) The unconscionable rascal! To claim the credit of what I have done! (Aloud.) Well, I had no idea that I had engaged a coachman who is in the knight-errant business. But your face reminds me of days when, as a youth, I dreamed of such a beautiful being!

HENRI. Ah! the signal. Now, for an interview with the ghosts. They won't like it, I am sure. Serpolette! Serpolette! Oh! pardon me—Marchioness! Marchioness!

(Enter SERPOLETTE.)

SERP. That name, Marchioness, my lord, must meet a ready response.

HENRI. I merely wished to advise your ladyship that our expected visitors, the ghosts, are about to put in an appearance.

SERP. Oh, save me, my lord! I don't want to meet them.

HENRI. Fear in the breast of the Marchioness De Lucenay? Why, I am surprised!

SERP. Right, my lord; I am once more on my dignity. Marchioness, if you please; don't you forget it. But then, is there nothing more substantial for a Marchioness than ghosts? (Cries within.) Here they come! Here they come? Ah, save me! Help! The Marchioness is going to faint!

HENRI. Why, you silly creature! these are only my men! Look at this staunch little craft here, Germaine, who fears no man!

GERM. My Lord, a ghost and a man are very different things!

(Enter GRENICHEUX, BAILLI, & SAILORS.)

HENRI. Now, Monsieur Le Bailli, we shall very soon have an opportunity of interviewing those precious ghosts of yours.

BAILLI. Your Excellency, one of your crew informs me that there is a boat on the river approaching the chateau, and that one man alone is in it.

GREN. Help! Help! Look at that phantom!

SERP. You donkey! It is only the curtain which I was pulling back

GREN. A pull back? Oh, that is a very different thing.

HENRI. (Aside.) That miserable liar, Grenicheux! Won't I make him smart for his intolerable falsehoods. (Aloud.) My men, this hall will be the first place where the ghosts will come. We must hide, so as to intercept them. Now some one must remain here on guard. Who shall it be?

A VERY SMALL SAILOR (steps forward). I, captain.

HENRI. Oh, no! You wouldn't be a mouthful for a ghost. Let me see—I want the bravest man in the crew. Who is he? Ah! here he is! (Claps GRENICHEUX on the back.) Come, boys, put him in yonder armor.

GREN. Oh, please your highness, I am scared out of my wits!

HENRI. So much the better. They are not of much use to you. Put him in the armor on wheels.

GREN. I shall die of fright!

HENRI. So much the better for the ghosts, and the worse for you!

GREN. Let me go this time, my lord, and I promise never to come here again!

HENRI. Nonsense! You are just the man for the situation. Clap him in the armor! (The sailors place GRENICHEUX in armor)

GREN. Well, this is a nice fix! Mailed, and waiting for a ghost to put a postage stamp on me! What shall I do? I'd sink down, if this confounded armor would only permit me. What is that? A light, and coming this way! Who is it, or rather what is it? I must shut my eyes and pray, if I can, for protection.

(Enter GASPARD carrying a lantern.)

GASP. I wonder what has come over me to-night. I feel as if something was going to happen. What can it be? Pshaw, Gaspard! courage! Courage, man! Leave such idle fears to the boobies of yonder village!

GREN. (Aside.) I am afraid to look at it, whatever it is.

GASP. Idle fears! Why, Gaspard, old man, you are a fool! No one dare venture in this neighborhood after dark.

GREN. (Aside.) Here is one poor devil who has gone and done it!

GASP. And that old Bailli—what did he mean by his hints to-day? Can he suspect? No, no! And yet he seemed so positive! Bah! Cheer up, Gaspard! No one knows where you keep your savings bank. The old chateau of Corneville—what a hiding-place! No absconding cashier, no speculative president. (Rolls armor with GRENICHEUX up and down.)

GREN. Mercy! Mercy!

GASP. What's the matter with you? Did you speak? Pshaw! An old armor that has rusted here for ages. Gaspard, if you go on like this, you will soon be as big a fool as any of the bumpkins of yonder village. (Places lantern and money bags on table.)

GREN. What a narrow escape! Now I'm only an old rusty armor.

GASP. What did that old fool of a Bailli mean by his questions about the former Marquis and my administration of his affairs?

GREN. (Aside.) I think, upon my word, that I am going to faint!

GASP. (Lighting candles.) And only think of it—Germaine gone off with that foreign captain, when I had everything arranged for her wedding with the Bailli; but I shall have her back—I shall have her back! There is law in this country, even if it is Normandy; and the Bailli shall have his bride, and I shall be then rid of him and her. She has been such a charge! Little did her father, the Marquis De Lucenay, think what a responsibility he placed on my shoulders, when he committed this child to my care. But I shall make a good thing out of it. (Lights candles.)

GREN. (Aside.) It is lighting up—now I am gone! Let me say my prayers.

GASP. My plans are too well laid to be discovered, unless one Marquis should come back to claim his inheritance, and the other to claim his daughter.

GREN. (Aside.) Why does it light so many candles?

GASP. What an ugly dream I have had! I thought that the Marquis De Lucenay came back and claimed his daughter from me.

GREN. (Aside.) What an ugly face this ghost has!

GASP. (Unlocking door and entering small room.) And now, for my precious gold, my darling treasure! Let me see it once again and add to it. My darling gold! My mistress that ever smiles on me!

GREN. Why, as I live, it is old Gaspard, that wretch of a miser!

Heavens! he would kill me, if he should recognize me! Now, I must be wary in dealing with such an old scoundrel!

GASP. (Entering with bags of gold.) Oh, my darling gold! My darling gold! Mistress of my heart! (wrapping himself in a sheet.) By the way, I must not forget my ghost business. Here is a spiritual medium of the first water—terms moderate. Now, then, to perplex the boors of the village. Oh, confound this old armor (Pushes GRENICHEUX before him.)

GREN. Help! Help!

GASP. What did you say? Gaspard, you are an ass! Only a piece of rusty armor! Do you wish to be afraid of your own ghosts (Goes to window and waves sheet.) There now, if any country bumpkin sees me, he will rush home and tell his folks that the devils are holding high carnival in the chateau of Corneville! By the way, if ever I catch that miserable fisherman, Grenicheux, I'll kill him! (Runs armor up and down.)

GREN. Police! Police!

GASP. What's that you say? Pshaw!—only imagination! Now only think of it—the Bailli, Germaine, the Marquis and the accounts. Ah, here is something to console me! My gold! my gold! my darling gold! (Sits down to table, opens bags of gold and counts his money.)

The musical score consists of three staves. The top staff is for the Bassoon, the middle staff for the Piano/Voice, and the bottom staff for the Bassoon. The score is divided into four systems by vertical bar lines. The first system starts with a bass clef, a key signature of one flat, and a common time signature. The lyrics "brave days will come back, And my band of beg - gars lus - - ty, With a" are written below the notes. The second system begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one flat, and a common time signature. The lyrics "wal - let for our pack,... And our coats and throats aye dus - - ty! Come," are written below the notes. The third system continues with a bass clef, a key signature of one flat, and a common time signature. The lyrics "tramp each mer - ry loon, And troll be - neath the moon. Toor-al loor - la - lay!...." are written below the notes. The fourth system begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one flat, and a common time signature. The lyrics "Toor - al loor - al toor - la loor - al toor - al - - la!" are written below the notes. Various dynamics are indicated throughout the score, including 'p' (piano), 'rall.' (GASPARD sinks into a chair. Enter BAILLI, Peasant Girls surrounding him.)

PEASANT GIRLS. My dear Bailli! Why, how well you look! Where have you been? You seem worried. What has become of the bride? How about the honeymoon? Have you brought her back, or has she given you the slip?

BAILLI. Be quiet, for goodness' sake. Never, in my life, have I had such a succession of queer adventures. Bells, ghosts, the return of the Marquis, crazy Gaspard, and the grand transformation of everything, have well nigh turned my head. Then, only think of little Serpolette and that fisherman, Grenicheux.

ALL. Please, tell us about them.

BAILLI. Well, the court has examined into the question of Serpolette's claim. They found that the page was removed from the register, at the date of the 15th of May, 1667. But the proofs are in favor of Serpolette, and show that she is the daughter of the Marquis De Lucenay. Therefore, the court decides in her favor.

GREN. (Within.) Here comes her Serene Highness, the Marchioness De Lucenay, and her noble factotum, the Honorable Jean Grenicheux.

BAILLI. Only listen to that scoundrel!

ALL. Oh, what a magnificent turnout! What a grand lady!

GERT. So, Serpolette, you have returned to us once more?

GREN. Yes, good people, her highness—

SERP. Shut up about my Highness. Well, I have condescended to see you once more. Bye the way, young person, there is some festival in progress here.

GERT. Oh yes! the Marquis celebrates his return from exile.

GREN. As we shall, when we open our chateau.

SERP. Will you be still? Ah! there was a person named Germaine.

GERT. Oh, she is the particular friend of the Marquis. They say—

SERP. It looks bad. I am astonished she should be so indiscreet.

GREN. It is scandalous.

SERP. Hold your tongue, sir. Go and attend to my carriage.

GREN. (aside.) She is an absolute tyrant. I shall not submit much longer to her intolerant airs. (aloud.) Your Highness's orders shall be obeyed. (Exit GREN.)

BAILLI. Excuse me, my lady, but I cannot listen to any charges against such a good girl as Germaine.

SERP. (elevating eye glass.) Ah! I recollect. The elderly person who wished to marry this Germaine.

BAILLI. I acknowledge that I made a fool of myself in trying to win, one young enough to be my grand daughter. But I maintain, Germaine is a good girl.

SERP. Well, old gentleman, the subject is beneath the notice of the noble Marchioness and Countess De Luceyay. Can any of you tell me about a certain wiser named Gaspar?

ALL. He is crazy, my lady. (GASP. dances insanely.)

SERP. What a horrible creature! I shall speak to him however. Perhaps the dignity of my presence may restore him to reason. Gaspard, I say, approach me.

GASP. Why, it is little Serpolette.

SERP. No sir, you address the Countess De Luceyay.

GASP. Ah! now I remember. The Count De Luceyay, committed his daughter to my care.

SERP. Behold that daughter.

GASP. You! why, you must be crazy.

SERP. You horrible creature, it is you who are crazy.

GASP. Serpolette the daughter of the Count De Luceyay! Why it is the best joke, I have heard for a long time.

SERP. Begone, old man. Try and recover your senses.

(GASPARD dances and sings.)

BAILLI. Excuse the old fool, my lady. He is not responsible for what he says.

SERP. He is beneath the notice of the Countess De Luceyay. Ah! the music! the dance! just the thing for me.

BAILLI. Surely your ladyship would not condescend.

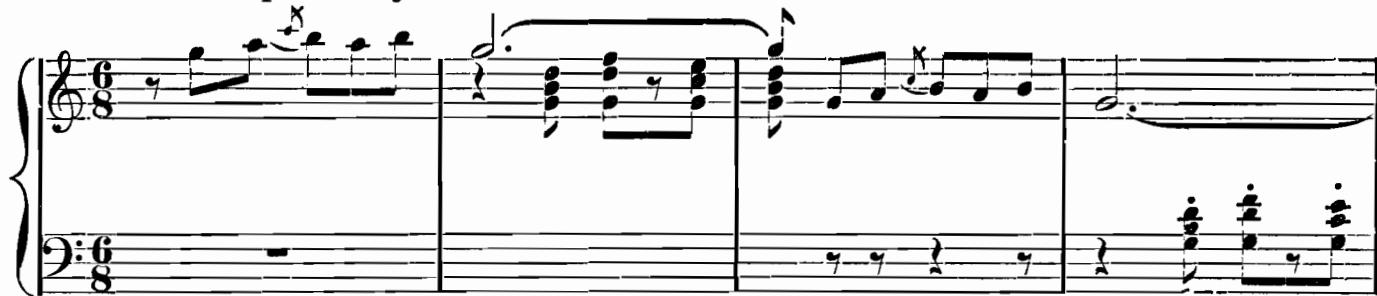

SERP. Just the very thing my ladyship will. Old man, I shall select you as a partner, but first let me sing you, one of our old Norman songs.

The musical score consists of eight staves of music. The top two staves are soprano voices, the middle two are alto voices, the bottom two are bass voices, and the bottom two are piano accompaniment. The piano accompaniment features a bass line and harmonic chords. The vocal parts sing in unison, and the piano part provides harmonic support. The music is in common time, with various note values including eighth and sixteenth notes.

HENRI. You unconceivable liar! So you claim the credit of rescuing Germaine from a watery grave. Now, here is my answer. (Strikes him.)

GERN. Oh, my lord, pardon! pardon! I didn't do it.

HENRI. You rascal! Don't you recollect that I was the captain of a certain vessel, which was off the coast at the time, and that I rescued the lady in question, from a watery grave, and afterwards confided her to your care. Now you claim all the credit of having rescued her.

GERN. My lord! I acknowledge all

HENRI. Now, then, you rascal, go to Germaine and acknowledge the truth, only don't mention my name. If you fail, I shall hang you from the battlements of the castle.

GERMAINE. (rushing forward.) Enough, my lord! then you are the preserver of my life, not this cowardly claimant!

HENRI. My dear Germaine!

GERM. I have heard all. My life is yours, begone, miserable deceiver!

GERN. Oh! I'm off. It was not an agreeable secret after all.

(Exit GERONIMEUX.)

SERP. What a cowardly wretch! Look here! I am your mistress, and you must obey me!

GREN. I shan't do it!

SERP. (Boxing his ears,) There! take that, you wretch!

HENRI. Noble countess, there is some trouble here.

SERP. I should say so. This fellow says you want to hang him.

GREN. From the battlements.

SERP. Hold your tongue! I don't want a servant of mine at the tight end of a rope.

GREN. With his neck broken.

SERP. Will you ever be quiet? Now, my lord, it is a very disagreeable thing for me, a marchioness, to have a servant at the end of a rope!

HENRI. Well, I acknowledge, it is rather derogatory to your dignity, therefore, I forgive him this time, for your sake; but allow me to present an old friend of yours, Germaine—you, surely, cannot have forgotten her.

SERP. Oh, yes, I believe there was a young person of that name whom I have honored with my acquaintance; but, then, Marquis, since I have become Marchioness and Countess de Lucenay, I move in quite another sphere. (Enter GASPARD, crazy.)

GREN. Crazy Gaspard! I want to go home.

GASP. Ah, everybody thinks that old Gaspard is crazy, but he knows better. He knows all about the haunted chateau and its secrets. Ah, here is the paper that can tell all about the Coun<sup>t</sup> de Lucenay's daughter. (Shows paper.)

HENRI. (Snatching paper.) What do I read! Germaine is the long lost Marchioness?

GASP. Help! Help! They rob me of my papers!

HENRI. Gaspard, look at me! I am the son of your old master, Henri de Corneville. Come, acknowledge your fault, and declare the truth. Germaine is the real daughter of the Marquis de Lucenay.

GASP. My lord! my lord! Where have I been? My head still whirls. Ah! yes, yes; now I recognize you. You are my old master's living picture! Please, forgive a poor old man! (Falls on his knees.) A poor, poor old man! And she, Germaine, is the child intrusted to my care.

SERP. You horrid old miser—who then, am I?

GASP. Why only Serpolette, the mischief-maker of the village—a peasant's daughter, that is all!

HENRI. Well, Gaspard, I'll forgive you for all, as long as you have such a sweet petitioner here.

SERP. But what is to become of me?

GREN. Please, take compassion on your humble servant!

SERP. Well, I suppose that is all left to me now.
