Handwritten musical score on aged paper, featuring multiple staves with notes and lyrics. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting a double-sided manuscript or a bleed-through effect. The lyrics are written in a historical script, likely Latin or German, and are interspersed with musical notation. The paper shows signs of age, including discoloration and faint stains.

Handwritten musical score on ten staves. The notation is in a historical style, featuring various note values (minims, crotchets, quavers) and rests. The lyrics are written in a Gothic script below the staves. The text is mirrored across the staves, suggesting a double-sided page or a specific manuscript format. The ink is dark, and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

Handwritten musical notation on staves, including notes, clefs, and various Latin text fragments such as "Amen", "Kyrie", and "Gloria".

Handwritten musical notation on a five-line staff. The notes are written in a medieval style, with some red ink used for certain notes. The text below the staff is written in a Gothic script and is mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side. Some visible words include "Gott", "Sanctus", and "Agnus Dei".

Handwritten musical notation on a five-line staff, continuing from the previous system. The notation and accompanying text in Gothic script are similar to the first system. A large, ornate initial 'D' is visible on the right side of the staff. The text is mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through.
