speed, To save him in the fight.

O, with my Arab steed I'll go,
To brave th' embattled plain,
Where warriors brave their valor show,
And drain each noble vein;
His brow, that oft the battle braves,
With fadeless laurels crowned,

Shall guide we where his falchion waves—
But hark! the trumpets sound!
Then give me back my Arab steed,
A shield and falchion bright,
That I may to the field repair,
And save him in the fight.
