V.1. Though oth - ers may seek far and wide, ——— To gain but a moment of V.2. The world may seem brighter with - out, ——— With the glit - ter and tin - sel of V.3. If sorrow e'er darkens my way, ——— Till the heart wears a bur - den of bliss: Disap - pointment their foot steps a - bide, In a art, And its friendships appear more de - vout With the grief, And the friends I have trust - ed be - tray, In the world full of phantoms like this: But with loved ones the blessing to share, Oh, semblance of truth to the heart: -But so sweet are the pleasures I share, My hour when most needing re - lief: From the an - guish which tortures the mind, To who would be longing to roam, When taught by the joys dwelling heart has no zeamings to roam, Since noth - ing on earth can com - my own lit - tle heaven I'll come, In the smiles of my loved ones, to
