THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THE TIMES.

Its constantly varied treatment is nearly always happy, and a series of brilliant musical pictures is submitted to the hearer, who may well feel almost overpowered by their number and quick succession.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The earlier and more supernatural scenes are treated with a wealth and delicacy of imagination for which we might look in vain elsewhere, whilst, amid the human interest of the final section, and especially at that impressive moment when the knights advance in order to touch the unconscious Princess, he shows that he can be strong as a composer of dramatic music.

STANDARD.

Produced under such favourable circumstances, the "Water Lily" has every chance of finding its way in due course into all the principal musical centres in the country.

DAILY NEWS.

Mr. Cowen's orchestration is of infinitely more important and finished a character than in "Sleeping Beauty," and the new Cantata contains some of his happiest melodic inspirations.

MORNING POST.

There can be no question but that the composer has availed himself of his opportunities, and the "Water Lily" is undoubtedly entitled to rank high in the list of his compositions. . . . We do not think that his gifts have ever been exemplified to a greater extent than in the present Cantata.

ATHENÆUM.

"The Water Lily" is not only the most ambitious, but, on the whole, the most successful of Mr. Cowen's works of similar calibre. . . . In brief, "The Water Lily" is a remarkably clever and effective work, and well worthy the attention of our best choral societies, from whom alone it could receive justice.

DISPATCH.

"The Water Lily" should certainly command attention wherever its merits, which are very great, can find proper attention.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN.*

I.

At Stralsund, by the Baltic Sea,
Within the sandy bar,
At sunset of a summer's day,
Ready for sea, at anchor lay
The good ship Valdemar.

The sunbeams danced upon the waves,
And played along her side ;
And through the cabin windows streamed
In ripples of golden light, that seemed
The ripple of the tide.

There sat the captain with his friends,
Old skippers brown and hale,
Who smoked and grumbled o'er their grog,
And talked of iceberg and of fog,
Of calm, and storm, and gale.

And one was spinning a sailor's yarn
About Klaboterman,
The Kobold of the sea ; a sprite
Invisible to mortal sight,
Who o'er the rigging ran.

Sometimes he hammered in the hold,
Sometimes upon the mast,
Sometimes abeam, sometimes abaft,
Or at the bow he sang and laughed,
And made all tight and fast.

He helped the sailors at their work,
And toiled with jovial din ;
He helped them hoist and reef the sails,
He helped them stow the casks and bales,
And heave the anchor in.

But woe unto the lazy louts,
The idlers of the crew ;
Them to torment was his delight,
And worry them by day and night,
And pinch them black and blue.

And woe to him whose mortal eyes
Klaboterman behold.
It is a certain sign of death !—
The cabin-boy here held his breath,
He felt his blood run cold.

II.

The jolly skipper paused a while,
And then again began :
“ There is a Spectre Ship,” quoth he,
“ A Ship of the Dead that sails the sea,
And is called the Carmilhan.

“ A ghostly ship, with a ghostly crew,
In tempest she appears ;
And before the gale, or against the gale,
She sails without a rag of sail,
Without a helmsman steers.

“ She haunts the Atlantic north and south,
But mostly the mid sea,
Where three great rocks lie bleak and bare
Like furnace chimneys in the air,
And are called the Chimneys Three.

“ All ill betide the luckless ship
That meets the Carmilhan ;
Over her decks the seas will leap,
She must go down into the deep,
And perish mouse and man.”

The captain of the Valdemar
Laughed loud with merry heart.
“ I should like to see this ship,” said he ;
“ I should like to find these Chimneys Three,
That are marked down in the chart.

“ I have sailed right over the spot,” he said,
“ With a good stiff breeze behind,
When the sea was blue, and the sky was clear,—
You can follow my course by these pinholes
here,—
And never a rock could find.”

And then he swore a dreadful oath,
He swore by the Kingdoms Three,
That should he meet the Carmilhan,
He would run her down, although he ran
Right into Eternity !

All this, while passing to and fro,
The cabin-boy had heard ;
He lingered at the door to hear,
And drank in all with greedy ear,
And pondered every word.

He was a simple country lad,
But of a roving mind.
"O, it must be like heaven," thought he,
"Those far-off foreign lands to see,
And fortune seek and find!"

But in the fo'c'stle, when he heard
The mariners blaspheme,
He thought of home, he thought of God,
And his mother under the churchyard sod.
And wished it were a dream.

One friend on board that ship had he ;
'Twas the Klaboterman,
Who saw the Bible in his chest,
And made a sign upon his breast,
All evil things to ban.

III.

The cabin windows have grown blank
As eyeballs of the dead ;
No more the glancing sunbeams burn
On the gilt letters of the stern,
But on the figure head ;

On Valdemar Victorious,
Who looketh with disdain
To see his image in the tide,
Dismembered float from side to side,
And reunite again.

" It is the wind," those skippers said,
" That swings the vessel so ;
It is the wind ; it freshens fast,
'Tis time to say farewell at last,
'Tis time for us to go."

They shook the captain by the hand,
" Good luck ! good luck ! " they cried ;
Each face was like the setting sun,
As, broad and red, they one by one
Went o'er the vessel's side.

The sun went down, the full moon rose,
Serene o'er field and flood ;
And all the winding creeks and bays
And broad sea meadows seemed ablaze,
The sky was red as blood.

The south-west wind blew fresh and fair,
As fair as wind could be ;
Bound for Odessa, o'er the bar,
With all sail set, the Valdemar
Went proudly out to sea.

The lovely moon climbs up the sky
As one who walks in dreams ;
A tower of marble in her light,
A wall of black, a wall of white,
The stately vessel seems.

Low down upon the sandy coast
The lights begin to burn ;
And now, uplifted high in air,
They kindle with a fiercer glare,
And now drop far astern.

The dawn appears, the land is gone,
The sea is all around ;
Then on each hand low hills of sand
Emerge and form another land ;
She steereth through the Sound.

Through Kattegat and Skager-rack
She flieth like a ghost ;
By day and night, by night and day,
She bounds, she flies upon her way
Along the English coast.

Cape Finisterre is drawing near,
Cape Finisterre is past ;
Into the open ocean stream
She floats, the vision of a dream
Too beautiful to last.

Suns rise and set, and rise, and yet
There is no land in sight ;
The liquid planets overhead
Burn brighter now the moon is dead,
And longer stays the night.

IV.

And now along the horizon's edge
Mountains of cloud uprose.
Black as with forests underneath,
Above their sharp and jagged teeth
Were white as drifted snows.

Unseen behind them sank the sun,
But flashed each snowy peak
A little while with rosy light
That faded slowly from the sight
As blushes from the cheek.

Black grew the sky,— all black, all black ;
The clouds were everywhere ;
There was a feeling of suspense
In nature, a mysterious sense
Of terror in the air.

And all on board the Valdemar
 Was still as still could be ;
 Save when the dismal ship-bell tolled,
 As ever and anon she rolled,
 And lurched into the sea.

The captain up and down the deck
 Went striding to and fro ;
 Now watched the compass at the wheel,
 Now lifted up his hand to feel
 Which way the wind might blow.

And now he looked up to the sails,
 And now upon the deep ;
 In every fibre of his frame
 He felt the storm before it came,
 He had no thought of sleep.

Eight bells ! and suddenly abaft,
 With a great rush of rain,
 Making the ocean white with spume,
 In darkness like the day of doom,
 On came the hurricane.

The lightning flashed from cloud to cloud.
 And rent the sky in two ;
 A jagged flame, a single jet
 Of white fire, like a bayonet,
 That pierced the eyeballs through.

Then all around was dark again,
 And blacker than before :
 But in that single flash of light
 He had beheld a fearful sight,
 And thought of the oath he swore.

For right ahead lay the Ship of the Dead,
 The ghostly Carmilhan !
 Her masts were stripped, her yards were bare,
 And on her bowsprit, poised in air,
 Sat the Klaboterman.

Her crew of ghosts was all on deck
 Or clambering up the shrouds ;
 The boatswain's whistle, the captain's hail,
 Were like the piping of the gale,
 And thunder in the clouds.

And close behind the Carmilhan
 There rose up from the sea,
 As from a foundered ship of stone,
 Three bare and splintered masts alone :
 They were the Chimneys Three.

And onward dashed the Valdemar
 And leaped into the dark ;
 A denser mist, a colder blast,
 A little shudder, and she had passed
 Right through the Phantom Bark.

She cleft in twain the shadowy hulk,
 But cleft it unaware ;
 As when, careering to her nest,
 The sea-gull severs with her breast
 The unresisting air.

Again the lightning flashed ; again
 They saw the Carmilhan,
 Whole as before in hull and spar ;
 But now on board of the Valdemar
 Stood the Klaboterman.

And they all knew their doom was sealed ;
 They knew that death was near ;
 Some prayed who never prayed before,
 And some they wept, and some they swore,
 And some were mute with fear.

Then suddenly there came a shock,
 And louder than wind or sea
 A cry burst from the crew on deck,
 As she dashed and crashed, a hopeless wreck,
 Upon the Chimneys Three.

The storm and night were passed, the light
 To streak the East began ;
 The cabin-boy, picked up at sea,
 Survived the wreck, and only he,
 To tell of the Carmilhan.

1st & 2nd Soprano.

A musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, and Bass) in common time. The music consists of two staves of five measures each. The first staff begins with a soprano note, followed by alto and bass entries. The second staff begins with a bass note, followed by soprano and alto entries. The lyrics are identical for both staves: "rise, and yet There is no land in sight; The li- quid pla - nets". The music features eighth-note patterns and rests.

A musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, and Bass) and piano. The vocal parts are on treble, alto, and bass staves respectively, with lyrics written above them. The piano part is on a separate staff at the bottom. The music consists of four measures of a repeating melody. The lyrics are: "o-ver-head Burn bright-er now the moon is dead," followed by "And". The piano part provides harmonic support with sustained notes and chords.

A musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, Tenor/Bass) in common time. The key signature changes between G major (two sharps), F major (one sharp), and C major (no sharps). The vocal parts are arranged in three staves. The lyrics describe a scene of grief and silence, with some voices weeping and others swearing. The music includes dynamic markings such as pp (pianissimo) and ppp (pianississimo).

J O B

AN ORATORIO

FOR TREBLE, TENOR, BARITONE, & BASS SOLI, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s. 6d. ; String Parts, 12s. ; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE TIMES.

The whole monologue is an extraordinary exhibition of sustained power and effect, such as very few composers of any period have surpassed. . . . The impression produced by the work was very great, and it must be said deliberately that recent years have not seen a composition more free from flaw or weak point of any kind.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Having once more heard Dr. Parry's Oratorio, under the best possible conditions, I accept it as a masterpiece without the smallest qualification. . . . Nothing more interesting than this work could have been given to the Festival Public. . . . "Job" is one of the greatest works of modern times, and does no little to lift our English art to the highest level.

STANDARD.

To describe the numberless changes of time, rhythm, and manner would be impossible. . . . Mention, however, must be made of an exquisite melody in D flat, given out by the violoncellos, and supported by the trombones pianissimo, at the words "Man that is born of woman." This is truly a bit of inspiration, such as only comes at rare intervals even to a gifted composer. . . . That "Job" will materially add to the composer's growing reputation may be said with confidence.

MORNING POST.

His setting of the beautiful lines "Man that is born of a woman is of few days," to quote only one instance, is a marvel both of beauty and appropriateness. . . . The general verdict will no doubt declare "Job" to be Dr. Parry's masterpiece.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

It literally teems with beautiful phrases—in fact, the possession by Dr. Parry of the inestimable gift of melody has, I am inclined to think, never been so evident as in the verses commencing "Why died I not?" and "Man that is born of woman." . . . From whatever point of view it may be criticised, "Job" is thoroughly worthy the composer of the stupendous "De Profundis."

THE GUARDIAN.

As for the music, it is worthy at all points of the composer of the "De Profundis."

THE ATHENÆUM.

That Dr. Parry has written nothing finer than "Job" is generally admitted, and his boldness in dispensing with set airs, fugal choruses, and an elaborate Finale is abundantly justified by results.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the Studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.
