 the present work, have been widely circulated, and are still extensively used, viz.: " "The Boston Handel and Haydn'Society Collection," first published in 1822; "The Choir," in 1832; and "The Boston Academy's Collection," in 1835. They each contain, especially the first and last named, a great variety of the old standard psalm and hymn tuncs, such as have long been, and will still cons tinue to he sung in our churches. It is not, perhaps, too much to assume, that these, in connection with other valuable works, have had an important influence in the constantly-progressive cause of musical knowledge and taste, so manifest in our country, for the last fifteen or twenty years. 'This cause is still advancing with a rapidity heretofore unknown. The introduction of music among children, and especially its incorporation into the common school system, are giving to it an impulse which will soon disseminate it throughout the land. The progress of musical education anong us is certainly one of the checring signs of the times, and calls for devout gratitude to Him to whose good providence it is o be ascribed - the Author of all peace aud concord.
It is evident that, under such circumstances, new wants will arise ; new schools must be established ; the number of teachers must be increased, and their quatifications elevated; and new books in the various departments of musical literature, will be required. The call for a new book of church musie has been already heard, and it is with great pleasure that the editor, grateful for the very favorable reception of ormer works by the musical public, now preseuts another effort for their approbation, in "The Modetn Psalmist.'
During a recent tour in Europe, it was a leading object with him to obtain materials for a work like his. In the prosecution of this design he visited many of the most important cities, and obtained from distinguished composers of different nations much manuscript music; and also a great variety of recen musical publications, English, German, and French, which had not before reached this country. From these sources the selections of new musie found in this volume, have beeu chiefly made. From the old English psalm tunes and German chorals of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, down to the composiions of the present day, selections have been made, embracing a diversity of style in melody, in harmony, and rhythmical construction, litherto unknown in psalmody, and by which its boundaries have heen very much enlarged.
Efforts have been made to give to the subordinate parts, particularly the tenor, a character as pleasing and melodious as is consistent with the preservation of the principal melody. It has also been an object o bring the several parts not only within the limits of the voice, but, in general, within the compass of its richest and most effective tones. Psalmody has often been written too ligh-favorable, indleed, for creaming, but unfavorable for singing.
In the department of Occasional Pieces, as Anthems, Motetts, Sentences, &c., the work will, also, be found to contain great variety. These are, mostly, short, easy, aud adapted to various occasions. "Is it appropriate to public worship?" "Will it be useful to the choir?" or, "Is it suited to the singing-school?" are questions which have been asked in relation to every piece. Many of the Moetts and Sentences will be appreciated by those choirs whose custom it is to begin the exercises of the abbath by voluntary singing.
In the department of Chants a wider range has been taken, than is customary in common singing books. In addition to the chants of the Episcopal church, (two sets of which have been inserted,) quite a number of others will be found, consisting of selcctions from sone of the most lyrical parts of the Psalms, with appropriate music, mostly in the form of single clants. A peculiarity of this part of the work consists in the appropriation of more of the poetry than is usual to the chanting note; thus producing more of the recitation of the chanting note, and less of the singing of the cadence, than is common in this form of church music. Perhaps the best general direction that can be giveu in relation to the time in which a chant should be sung, is this - "Sing about as fast as a good reader, under similar circumstances, would detiver the words." Many well-raught choirs sing much faster than this; but it is believed that an adherence to the above rule will be found the most favorable to devotional effect. I of church music than in former years. It is to be hoped that the time is not distant, when chanting will be generally introduced into public worship.
It will be perceived that the four parts have been compressed, and are printed upon two staves; the trethle and the alto being on the upper, and the tenor and base on the lower staff. Although this method of printing is new in this country, it is common in Europe, and is, indeed, almost the only one in which the German publications of church music appear. Its principal advantages are as tollows:-

1. It presents each part in its true place, or proper pitch.
2. It gives a clearer relative view of the several parts, and, at the same time, a much more satisfactory atid connected one of the harmony, and of the whole composition.
3. It is, perhaps, the best form in which the musie can appcar for the organist. Playing the music as it here written, the two upper parts with the right, and the two lower with the left hand, is one of the best exercises for the practice of psalmody, that he who is studying the organ can have.
4. It is much more convenient for those who wish to study the arrangement of vocal parts, or the cunterpoint of psalmody.
5. By this method of printing, upwards of one third more matter is brought into the same space.

The only objection which can be urged against it is, that it is not so easy to read the several parts; bu this objection will only be made by those who have been long accustomed to the other mode of printing
Fven these, however, and all who can loe said to have learncd to read psalmody tolerably well, will fine no difficulty in reading from this book after a very little practice in it. And it is eertainly quite as easy for a new beginner as the other mode of printing.
The introductory department (Elements of Vocal Music,) contains much new matter, and has been prepared with particular reference to adult singing-schools. While the same general method of analysis has been followed as in the "Manual of Instruction of the Boston Academy of Music,''the present work will be found to differ from that in the following particulars:-

1. The "Manual" is addressed to the teacher, and not only contains an explanation of the things which are necessary to be taught, but also points out minutely the way in which instruction is to be given. It professes to teach how to teach. The present work, however, is not designed as a manual for the teacher, but rather as a text-book for the scholar. While it contains, in a didactic form, all those doctrines or principles necessary for the pupil, it leaves the teacher to pursue his own method of explanation and illustration.
2. Another peculiarity consists in the great number of practical exercises, or lessons for singing, which it contains. This is, indeed, altogether a new feature in a book of this kind, the advantages of whirh must be apparent to every one who has had experience as a tracher. In the use of this work, the eacher will be, to a considerable extent, relieved from the laber of writing on the Black Board; and much time will be saved to the class. It is not supposcd, however, that these, or any other lessons, can supersede the use of the Black Board. This will still be important in every school for the purpose of such illustrations as are constantly necessary. But white the Black Board (and also the larger Excrcises*) will till be desirable and important, much of the time and labor heretofore bestowed in writing the lessons will be saved. The additional lessons contained in chap. xxiii. are highly important for the purposes mentioned on page 46.
It seems proper to remark, in conclusion, that a large portion of the Modern Psalmist consists of copyright music. Every tune to the name of which a star ( ${ }^{*}$ ) is annexed in either of the indexes at the end of the volume, has either been arranged, adapted, or composed for this work, or taken from other recent works of the Editor, and is therefore property.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

CHAPTER I.

GENERAL DIVISION OF THE SUBJECT.
§ I. Musical sounds may be

1. Long or Short.
2. High or Low.
3. Soft or Loud.
§ II. In the elementary principles of music there are three departments :
4. Rhythm. This is founded on the first of the above distinctions, and treats of the length of sounds.
5. Melody. This is founded on the second distinction, and treats of the pitch of sounds.
6. Dynanics. This is founded on the third distinction, and treats of the power of sounds.

§III. GENERAL VIEW.

| Distinctions. | Deparlments. | Subjects. |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| Long or SHort. | Rhythm. | Lenath. |
| High or Low. | Měody. | Pitch. |
| Soft or Loud. | Dynamics. | Power. |

QUESTIONS.

How many distinctions exist in musical sounds?
What is the first distinction? What the second? What the third? How many departments are there in the elementary principles of music? What is the first department called? What the second? What the third? What distinction is that from which arises Rhythm? Melody? Dynamics? What is the subject of Rhythm? What of Melody? What of Dynamics? What is that department called which relates to the Length of sounds ? Pitch? Power 1

CHAPTER II. RHYTHM.

DIVISIONS OF TIME, BEATING TIME, ACCENT.

§ IV. The length of sounds is regulated by a division of the time occupied in the performance of music into equal portions.
§V. The portions of time into which music is divided are called Measures.
§ VI. Measures are divided into Parts of Measures.
§ VII. A measure with two parts is called Double measure.

Illustration.

|  |  | Triple. | Quadruple. | Sextaplo. |

|  | 2 | 11213 | 1121314 | 11213141516 |
|  |  |  |  |  |

§ VIII. The character used for separating measures is called a Bar-thus,
Note. Observe the difference between a measure and a bar. Do not call a measure, a bar.
§IX. To aid in the computation and accurate division of time, certain motions of the hand are made. This is called Beating Time.
Note. Every person lcarning to sing should give strict attention to beating time. Experience proves that where the habit of beating time is neglected, the ability to ketp time is seldom acquired.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

§ X. Double measure, or Double time, has two motions, or beats: first, Downward; second, Upward. Accented on the first part of the measure.
§ XI. Triple time has three beats: first, Downward; second, Hither; third, Upward. Accented or the first part of the measure.
§ XII. Quadruple time has four beats: first, Downward; second, Hither ; third, Thither ; fourth, Upward. Accented on the first and third parts of the measure.
§ XIII. Sextuple time has six beats : first, Downward; second, Downward; third, Hither; fourth, Thither ; fifth, Upward; sixth, Upward. Accented on the first and fourth parts of the measure.
Note. The hither beat is made horizontally to the left, the thither beat to the right. For the first downward beat, in Sextuple time, let the hand fall half the way, and for the second. the remainder.
§ XIV. One ineasure in Quadruple is equivalent to two measures in Double time; and one measure in Sextuple is equivalent to two measures in Triple time.
Note. The most important requisite in all good performance is accuracy of time. It is this that oinds a choir together, and carries them safely through the most difficult rhythmical combinations. To acquire the habit of keeping good time requires much patience and perseverance; and it is in this To acquire the habit of keeping good time requires much patience

QUESTIONS.

How do we regulate the length of sounds in music?
What are those portions of time called into which music is divided?
What portions of time are there smaller than measures?

CHAPTER III.

RHYTHM—OF NOTES.
$\oint X V$. The length of sourds is indicated by the form of certain characters called Notes.
§ XVI. There are five kinds of notes in common use, viz:

Whole Note
Half Note

Quarter Note
Elghth Note

Sixteenth Note
(Semibreve.,
(Minim.)
(Crotchet.)
(Quaver.)
(Semiquaver.)
§ XVII. Besides the above there are sometimes used Thirty-seconds Sizty-fourths § XVIII. The following table exhibits the notes in common use, with their relative lengths.

EXERCISES. To be sung to the syllable $l a$. Quadruple Time.

1. Quarter notes. One quarter to each beat.

2. Half notes. Two beats to each note.

3. Whole notes. Four beats to each note. 0
4. Eighth notes. Two notes to each beat.
5. Sixteenth notes. Four notes to each beat.

6. All the notes in common use.

§ XIX. A Dor (•) adds one half to the length of a note. Thus a dotted half $\sigma^{\circ}$ is equal in length to three quarters

QUESTIONS.

What are those characters called which are used to indicate the length of sounds?
How many kinds of notes are there in common use?
What is the longest note called? &c.
How much does a dot add to the length of a note?
Note. The school having procceded thus far in Rhythm, Melody may be advantageously introduced, and the scale explained, &cc. as in chapters 10 and 11.

CHAPTER IV.

RHYTHM-VARIETIES OF MEASURE.

§ XX. Each kind of time may have as many varieties as there are different notes. These varieties are obtained by the use of the different notes on each part of the measure.

Q XXI. Time is marked by figures which express the number of parts and contents of the measure; the upper figure or numerator showing the number of parts, or kind of time; and the lower figure or denominator denoting the particular note used on each part of the measure, or the variety of time.

Examples of the most common varieties of measure.

Double Time.

Quadruple Tince.
Triple Time.

Sextuple Time.

Vote. It is to be observed, that notes have no positive, but only a relafive length. The example 2-2 is not necessarily either slower or quicker than 2-4; 3-2 is neither slower nor quicker than 3-8, &r. The different varieties of time in each of the above examples are practically the same. To the eye they are different, to the ear alike.

QUESTIONS.
How many varieties are there in each kind of time? How are they obtained? How designated?
What does the upper figure show? The lower?

PRACTICAL EXERCISES. Rhythm and Melody united.

Note. As it is presumed that in every singing school, Melody will have been introduced, and the scale explained, before this chapter, rhythmical exercises are now given in connexion with the scale, ir preference to a constant repetition of the same sound to the syllable la.

CHAPTER V.

RHYTHM—DIFFERENT NOTES APPLIED TO THE DIFFERENT VARIETIES OF MEASURE; AND DIFFERENT NOTES IN THE SAME MEASURE.
§ XXII. Different notes may occur in every variety of measure.
PRACTICAL EXERCISES. Syllable la.

[^0]

§ XXIII. Different notes may occur in the same measure.
PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

§ XXIV. The singing may commence on some other part of the measure than the first.

CHAPTER VI.

RHYTHMICAL CLASSIFICATION ; OR PRIMITIVE AND DERIVED RELATIONS. ONE NOTE TO EACH PART OF THE MEASURE.
$\S$ XXV. The shortest note used in a measure, or rhythmical phrase, is taken as the standard, by which to determine the relative length of every other. The shortest notes therefore, may be considered as primitive, or as constituting the prinitive relation of the measure, from which all other relations (form, order, or combination of notes,) are derived.
§ XXVI. Derived relations are obtained from the primitive relation, by uniting two or more of the primitive notes.

EXAMPLE.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES. The scale in different rhythmical relations.

CHAPTER VII.

QUARTER, HALF AND WHOLE RESTS.
§ XXVIII. When a measure, or part of a measure is to be passed over in silence, it is indicated by a character called a Rest. § XXIX. Each note has its corresponding Rest.

CHAPTER X.

the scale. (diatonic scale, major.)
§ XXXVIII. At the foundation of Melody lies a series of eight sounds called the Scale.
§ XXXIX. The sounds of the scale are designated by numerals, viz: one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight.

> Illustration.

Note. The scale should be sung to the class slowly and distinctly, to the syllable la, or to nume rals, beginning at a suitable pitch, ascending and descending sereral times until they may be supposed to have a elear idea of it, when they may be required to sing it themselves. A few will almost always be found, say from five to ten in a elass of a hundred, who caunot at f.st get the sounds right. These eannot go on with the others to adrantage to cither party, but if they ean practise in a separate class they may, probably, by extra exertion, succeed. As the difficulty in such eases is almost always with the ear, listening to the singing of others is quite as important to such persons as any attempt at singing themselves.
$\oint$ XL. The difference of pitch between any two sounds is called an Intervat. Thus, from one to two is an interval, \&cc.
§XLI. In the scale, there are five larger and two smaller intervals, the former called Tones and the latter Semi-tones.
XLII. The semitones occur between the sounds three and four; and seven and eight; between the other sounds the interval is a tone.

QUESTIONS.

What is the second distinction in musical sounds?
What is that department called which is founded on this distinction?
Of what does Melody treat?
What is that series of sounds called which lies at the foundation of Melody?
How many sounds are there in the scale?
How do we designate, or speak of the sounds of the scale?
What is the difference of pitch between two sounds called?
How many intervals are there in the scale?
What are the larger intervals called? What the smaller?
How many tones are there? How many semitones?
What is the interval from one to two? From two to three? From three to four? &c.

CHAPTER XI.

melody -the staff, letters, Clefs and syllables.

§ XLIII. The pitch of sounds is determined by a character called a Staff.
§ XLIV. The Staff consists of five lines, and the spaces between them.
EXAMPLE.

| Fifth-line. | Fourth space. |
| :--- | :--- |
| Fourth-line. | Third space. |
| Second-line. | Second space. |
| First-line. | First space. |

XLV. Each line and space is called a Degree; thus there are nine degrees: five lines and four spaces.
§ XLVI. When more than nine degrees are wanted, the spaces below or above the staff are used; also additional lines called added lines.

EXAMPLE.
Space above. Added line above.
Space below.
_ Added line below.
§ XLVII. The following letters, representing the sounds of the scale, are applied to the staff: C, D, E, F, G, A, B, C.
§ XLVIII. The position of the letters upon the staff is determined by a character called a Clef.
§ XLIX. There are two clefs in common use : the F or Base clef, and the Treble or G clef.

§ L. The Base clef is placed on the fourth line, and fixes on it the letter $F$, which it is designed to represent.
§ LI. The Treble clef is placed on the second line, and fixes on it its letter, G.

EXAMPLE.

§ LII. The sound one is written on the letter $\mathbf{C}$, and the other sounds of the scale follow in regular order.
§ LIII. In singing the scale, the following syllables are applied to its seraral sounds:

| Written, | Do, | Re, | Mr, | Fa, | Sol, | La, | Si, | Do. |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

§ LXIII. The human voice is naturally divided into four classes, viz: lowest male voices, or Base; highest male voices, or Tenor; lowest female voices, or Alto; highest female voices, or Treble. Boys, before their voices change, sing the Alto.

Nore. Besides the above distinctions, there is also the Baritone, between the Base and Tenor; and the Mezzo Soprano, between the Alto and Treble.
$\oint$ LXIV. The following example exhibits the usual compass of the human voice, and also that of the different parts, as Base, Tenor, Alto, Treble.

§ LXV. The Treble or G clef is used for the Alto and often for the Tenor; but when used for the Tenor it denotes $G$ an octave lower than when used for the Treble or Alto.

Note. It is important that the difference of pitch between male and female voices be fully explained and illustrated.
QUESTIONS.

When sounds above cight are sung, as what are we to regard eight?
When sounds below one are sung, as what are we to regard oue?
Into how many classes is the human voice divided?
What are the lowest male voices called? What are the highest called?

CHAPTER XIV.

the chromatic scale.

§ LXVI. Between those sounds of the scale which are a tone distant, we may have an intermediate sound a semitone distant from each; thus, intermediate sounds may occur between 1 and 2,2 and 3,4 and 5,5 and 6 , and 6 and 7 ; but not between 3 and 4 , and 7 and 8 , because the intervals between those sounds are already semitones, and there is no smaller practicable interval.
§ LXVII. The notes representing intermediate sounds may be written on the same degree of the staff with either of the sounds between which they occur. Thus the note representing the sound between I and 2 may be written upon the same degree of the staff as either of these sounds.
§ LXVIII. When the note representing an intermediate sound is written on the same degree of the staff as the lower of the two sounds between which it occurs, a sign of elevation called a Sharp ( $\#$ ) is placed before it, and the note, or letter, or sound is said to be sharped: as, Sharp one, Sharp two, \&cc. or $\mathrm{C} \#, \mathrm{D} \cdot \mathrm{F}, \& \mathrm{c}$. A sharp raises the pitch of a note half a tone.
§ LXIX. When the note representing an intermediate sound is written on the same degree of the staff as the upper of the two sounds between which it occurs, a sign of depression called a Flat ( b ) is placed before it, and the note, or letter, or sound is said to be flatted; as, Flat seven, Flat six, &c. or Bb, Ab, &c. A flat lowers the pitch of a note half a tone.
§ LXX. In the application of syllables to the sharped sounds, the vowel sound is changed to ce. Thus sharp one is di, (pronounced dee,) sharp two ri, &c. In the application of syllables to the flatted sounds, the vowel sound is ohanged to $a$. Thus the flat seven is se, (pronounced sa,) flat six le, &c.
§ LXXI. A scale of thirteen sounds, including all the intermediate sounds, and twelve intervals of a semitone each, is called the Chbomatic Scale.

EXAMPLE. The Chromatic Scale, Numerals, Letters and Syllables.

§ LXXII. A sharp or a flat affects the letter on which it is placed throughout the measure in which it occurs.
EXAMPLE.

Note. In the above example the sharp affects both $\mathbf{C s}$ in the first measure, but not the $\mathbf{C}$ in the second ineasure.
LXXIII. When a sharped or flatted note is continued on the same degree of the staff from one measure to another without any intervening note, the influence of the sharp or flat is also continued.

EXAMPLE.

§ LXXIV. When it is necessary to contradict a flat or a sharp, or to take away the effect of either of these characters, a character called a Natural (络) is used.

EXAMPLE.

§ LXXV. A sharped note naturally leads to the next degree above it, and a flatted note to the next degree below it. Hence it is easy to sing a sharped note in connexion with the note next above it, and a flatted note in connexion with the note next below it. PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

diatonic intervals.
§ LXXVI. In addition to those intervals called Tones and Semitones belonging to the scale in its natural progression, there are also other intervals occasioned by skipping; as, Seconds, Thirds, Fourths, Fifths, Sisthe, Sevenths and Octaves.
§ LXXVII. Intervals are always reckoned from the lower sound upwards, unless otherwise expressed.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES. DIATONIC INTERVALS.

Note. Diatonic, because they are produced by skips in the diatonic scale.
§ LXXVIII. Two sounds being the same pitch, are called Unison.
& LXXIX. When the voice proceeds from any sound to that on the next degree of the staff, the interval is called a Second.

§ LXXX. When the voice skips over one degree, the interval is called a Third.

CHAPTER XVII.

TRANSPOSITION OF THE SCALE.

$\oint$ XCVII. When C is taken as one, as it has always been hitherto, the scale is said to be in its natural position; but either of the other letters may be taken as one, in which case the scale is said to be transposed.
§ XCVIII. As one is the basis of the scale, the foundation on which it rests, so the letter which is taken for this sound is called the rey. Thus, if the scale be in its natural position, it is'said to be in the key of C ; if G be taken as one, the scale is in the KRy of $\mathrm{G}, \& \mathrm{c}$. By the key of C , is meant that $\mathbf{C}$ is one of the scale, or that the scale is based on $\mathbf{C}$; by the key of $\mathbf{G}$, is meant thet G is one of the scale, \&c.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

§ XCIX. In transposing the scale the proper order of the intervals (tones and semitones) must be preserved. Thus, the interval must always be a tone from one to two, and from two to three, a semitone from three to four, a tone from four to five, from five to six, and from six to seven, and a semitone from seven to eight.
§C. The interval from one letter to another is always the same, and cannot be changed; thus it is always a tone from C to D , and from D to E , a semitone from $E$ to $F$, a tone from $F$ to $G$, from $G$ to $A$, and from $A$ to $B$, and a semitone from B to C. In the transposition of the scale, therefore, it becomes necessary to introduce sharps and flats, or to substitute sharped or flatted letters for the natural letters, so as to preserve the proper order of the intervals.
§ CI. First transposition by sharps; from C to G, a fifth higher, or a fourth lower.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.
§CXI. The scale may be still further transposed by double sharps, but it is unnecessary, inasmuch as the same variety can be obtained by transposition by flats. The keys beyond E are seldom used.
§ CXII. It will be observed that in each of the foregoing transpositions the scale has been removed a fifth, (or a fourth downwards) and that at each transposition a new sharp on the fourth has been found necessary. Hence the following Rule: The sharp fourth transposes the scale a fifth.
§ CXIII. First transposition by flats ; from C to F, a fourth higher, or a fifth lower.

EXAMPLE.

§ CXIV. Signature. To preserve the proper order of intervals from three to four, and from four to five, in the above transposition of the scale, it is necessary to substitute $\mathbf{B b}$ for $\mathbf{B}$. The flat is placed immediately after the clef, and is called the signature; thus the signature of the key of $F$ is $B \mathrm{~b}$.

§ CXXIII. The scale may be still further transposed by double flats, but it is unnecessary, inasmuch as the same variety can be obtained by transposition by sharps. The keys beyond $A b$ are seldom used.
§ CXXIV. It will be observed that in each of the foregoing transpositions by flats, the scale has been removed a fourth (or fifth downwards), and that at each transposition a newv flat on the seventh has been found necessary. Hence the following rule: The flat seventh transposes the scale a fourth.

CHAPTER XVIII.

MINOR SCALE.

§ CXXV. In addition to the major scale as at Chapter $\mathbf{X}$, and the chromatic scale as at $\S$ LXXI, there is another scale in which the intervals (tones and semitones,) are differently placed, which is called the mivor scale.
Note. The word mode is oflen used in connexion with major and minor; as, Major mode and Minor mode.
§ CXXVI. In the ascending minor scale the semitones occur between two and three, and seven and eight : in descending between six and five, and tiaree and two.
§ CXXVII. The minor scale in its natural position commences with A, or A is taken as one.

EXAMPLE. Scale in A minor.

$\dagger$ Semitones.
§CXXVIII. In the ascending minor scale, six and seven are altered from the signature, both being sharped; but in descending, all the sounds remain unaltered from the signature.
§ CXXIX. When the major and minor scales have the same signature they are said to be related. Thus the key of C major is the relative major to $\dot{\mathrm{A}}$ minor; and the key of A minor is the relative minor to C major.
§ CXXX. The relative minor to any major key is found a sixth above it, or is based upon its sixth; and the relative major to any minor key is found a third above it, or is based upon its third.
§ CXXXI. It will be observed that the letters and syllables correspond in the major and its relative minor. Thus the syllable Do is applied to $\mathbf{C}$ in both cases, although it is one in the major and three in the minor mode.
§ CXXXII. There is another form in which the minor scale is often used, in which there are three intervals of a semitone each, three of a tone, and one of a tone and semitone.

CHAPTER XIX.

MODULATION.
§ CXXXIII. When in a piece of music the scale is transposed, such change is called modulation.
§ CXXXIV. The particular note by which the change is effected, is called the note of modulation.
§ CXXXV. When a modulation occurs, the melodic relations of the sounds are immediately changed, and it is necessary for the singer to understand and feel this change, and to be governed by it.
§ CXXXVI. If possible the change should be made in the mind of the performer before the note of modulation occurs, as this will enable him to get the true sound of that note.
§ CXXXVII. In such changes as usually occur in psalmody, extending only to one or two measures, it is not necessary to change the syllables, but merely to alter the vowel sound, or termination of the syllable as at $$ \mathrm{LXX}$; but where the change is continued for sometime, the solmization of the new key should be adopted.
§ CXXXVIII. The most common modulations are, 1st. from one to five, or from any key to that which is based upon its fifth; 2d. from one to four, or from any key to that which is based upon its fourth. These changes occur in almost every piece of music.
§ CXXXIX. First modulation. From one to five. This change is produced by sharping the fourth, which (sharp fourth) becomes seven in the new key. The sharp fourth is therefore the note of modulation between any key and its fifth.
§ CXL. Second modulation. From one to four. This change is produced by flatting the seventh, which (flat seventh) becomes four in the new key. The flat seventh is therefore the note of modulation between any ley and its fourth.

PASSING NOTES, SHAKE, TURN, LEGATO AND STACCATO, AND MISCELLANEOUS CHARACTERS.
Notr. The contents of this chapter may be introduced at any convenient time during the course.
§ CXLI. Passing Notes. Ornamental or grace notes are often introduced into a melody that do not essentially belong to it ; they are commonly written in smaller characters, and are called passing notes.
§ CXLII. Appogiature. When a passing note precedes an essential note, it is called an appogiature. The appogiature occurs on the accented part of a measure.

EXAMPLES.

§ CXLIII. After Note. When a passing note follows an essential note, it is called an after note. The after note occurs on the unaccented part of a measure.

§ CXLIV. Shaкe. The shake ( t ) consists of a rapid alternation of two sounds, as in the following example. It has no place in common psalmody, but should be much cultivated by those who would acquire smoothness and flexibility of roice.

EXAMPLE.

$\oint$ CXLV. TURN. The turn ( ) consists of a principal sound, with the sounds next above and below it. It should be performed with care and neatness, but not too quick.

$\$$ CXLVI. Legato. When a passage is performed in a close, smooth and gliding manner, it is said to be Legato. ( $\sim$ )

§ CXLVII. Staccato. When a passage is performed in a pointed, distinct and articulate manner, it is said to be staccato. ( 1 1 1 i)

> EXAMPLE.

§CXLVIII. Tie. A character called a tie is used to show how many notes are to be sung to one syllable. It is also used to denote the legato style. ( $\longrightarrow$ )
$\oint$ CXLIX. Pause. When a note is to be prolonged beyond its usual time, a character ( ) called a PAUSE is placed over or under it.
§ CL. Dovble Bar. A double bar (l) shows the end of a strain of the music, or of a line of the poetry.
§CLI. Brace. A brace is used to connect the staves on which the different parts are written.
§ CLII. Direct. The direct ( $w$ ) is sometimes used at the end of a staff to show on what degree the first note of the following staff is placed.

PARTTHIRI.

DYNAMICS. CHAPTER XXI.

DYNAMIC DEGREES. PIANO, MEZZO AND FORTE.

§ CLIII. Mezzo. A sound produced by the ordinary exertion of the vocal organs, is a medium or middle sound; it is called mezzo, (pronounced mét-zo) and is marked $m$.
§ CLIV. Piano. A sound produced by some restraint of the vocal organs, is a soft sound ; it is called piano, (pronounced pee-án-o) and is marked $p$.
$\oint$ CLV. Forte. A sound produced by a strong or full exertion of the vocal organs, is a loud sound; it is called forte, and is marked $f$.
Note. Mezzo, Piano and Forte are Italian words, which, by long usage, have become technical terms in Music, and are used by all nations.

§ CLVI. Pianissimo. If a sound is produced by a very small, but careful exertion of the vocal organs, softer than piano, yet so loud as to be a good audible sound, it is called plavissmo, (pronounced pee-an-is-si-mo) and is marked $p p$.
$\oint$ CLVII. Fortissimo. If a sound is produced with still greater exertion of the vocal organs than is required for forte, but not so loud as to degenerate into a scream; it is called fortissmo, and is marked $f f$.

CHAPTER XXII.

DYNAMIC TONES.
§ CXLVIII. Organ Tone. A sound which is commenced, continued and ended with an equal degree of power, is called an organ tone. ( $=$ )
Nore. Sing the scale in whole notes as at p. 18, to the vowel sound ah, applying the organ tone.
§ CXLIX. Crescendo. A sound commencing soft and gradually increasing to loud, is called crescendo. (cres. or -)

Note. Sing the scale as at p. 18 , to the vowel sound ah, applying the crescendo.
§CL. Diminuendo. A sound commencing loud and gradually diminishing to soft, is called dminuendo. (dim. or $=$ )
Note. Sing the seale as at p. 18, (ah,) applying the diminuendo.
§ CLI. Swell. An union of the crescendo and diminuendo, produces the SWELLING TONE, or SWELL. ( - )
Note. Sing the scale very slow, (ah,) applying the sweell.
$\oint$ CLII. Pressure Tone. A very sudden crescendo, or swell, is called a pressure tone. ( $<$ or $<$ )

EXAMPLE.

§ CLIII. Explosive Tone. A sound which is struck suddenly, with very great force, and instantly diminished, is called an explosive tone; also forzando, or sforzando. ( $>$ or $s f . f z$.)

EXAMPLES.

Note. Aspirate the first $h$ in the syllable hah, with great power.
§ CLIV. The proper application of dynamics constitutes the form of musical expression.

ADDITIONAL LESSON゙S.
Note. The following lessons are designed to promote flexibility of voice, neatness and accuracy of execution. They may be sung to $A m \in n$. (Ah-men,) or to any of the words on page 48, selecting one word and repeating it throughout the lesson. In singing the words, be careful that the vowel sound be exactly right, and that the consonants are given very quick and with great foree. When thus sung, they furnish excellent exercises in articulation.

WINDHAM. L. M.
DANIEL READ, late of New Haven, Ct

1. Thus far the Lord has led me on; Thus far his power prolongs my days; And every evening shall make known Some freshme-mo- rial of his grace.
2. I lay my bo - dy down to sleep; Peace is the pil - low for my head; While well appoint - ed an-gels keep Their watchful sta - tions round my bed.

HANNOVER. L. M.

1. When we, our wearied limbs to rest, Sat down by proud Eu-phra-tes' stream, We wept, with doleful thoughts oppressed, And Zi-on was our mournful theme. 2. Our harps, that, when with joy we sung, Were wont their tuneful parts to bear, With silent strings,neg-lect-ed hung, On wil-low trees that withered there.

Softly the shade of evening falls,Sprinkling the earth with dew - y tears; While nature's voice to slumber calls, And silence reigns a - mid the spheres.

3. There is a strean, whese gentle flow Supplies the ci - ty of our God! Life, love, and joy still gliding thro', And watering onr di - vine a - bode. 4. That sacred strean, thine ho - ly worl, Supports our faith, our fear con-trols: Sweet peace thy promises af- ford, And give new strength to fainting souls.

GLOUCESTER.

L. M.
(DOUBLE.)
MILGROVE.

1. Great is the Lord! what tnugue can frame An hon - or e - qual to his name? How aw - ful are his glo-rious ways! The Loril is dreadful in his praise.
2. Vast are thy works, al - migh - ty Lord, All na - ture rests up - on thy word ; And clouds, and storms,and fire o - bey Thy wise and all-con-trolling sway.

3. The world's foundations by his hand Were laid, and shall for - ev-er stand ; The swel-ling bil-lows know their bound, While to his praise they roll a - round. 4. Thy glo-ry, fearless of de-cline, Thy glo-ry, Lord, shall ev-cr shine; Thy praise shall still our breath em-ploy, Till we shall rise to end - less joy.

1. Thou great Instructer, lest I stray, Oh teach my err-ing feet thy way! Thy truth with ev - er fresh delight, Shall guide my doubtful steps aright. 2. How oft my heart's af-fec-tions yield, And wander o'er the world's wide field ! My rov-ing pas-sions, Lord, reclaim; U - - nite them all to fear thy name.

HAZZEZON. L. M.

1. My righteous Judge, my gracious God, Hear, when I spread my hands abroad; I cry for succor from thy throne, Oh! make thy truth and mercy known. 4. My thoughts in musing silence trace The ancient wonders of thy grace; Thence I de- rive a glimpse of hope, To bear my sinking spir-it up.

HAI. L. M.

1. My God, ac - cept my ear - ly vows, Like morning incense in thine house ; And let my nightly worship rise, Sweet as the evening sac - ri - fice. 2. Watch o'er my lips, and guard them, Lord, From every rash and heedless word, Nor let my feet incline to tread The guilty path, where sinners lead.

GESHUR.
L. M.

1. He lives, the ev - er - last-ing God, Who built the world, who spread the flood; The heav'ns, with all the ir host, he made, And the dark regions of the dead.
2. He guides our feet,he guards our way; His morning smiles adorn the day; He spreads the eve-ning veil, and keeps 'The silent hours, while Israel sleeps.

3. Thrice hap-py man! who fears the Lord,Loves his commands and trusts his word: Hon-or and peace his days at - tend, And blessings on his seed de - scend.
4. He hath dis-persed his arms a-broad,His works are still be - fore his God; His name on earth shall long re - main, Nor shall his hope of heaven be vain.

AUGSBURG. L. M.
NEWMARIK, 1660.

1. Through every age, e - - ter - nal God,Thou art our rest, our safe a-bode: High was thy throne, ere heaven was made, Or earth thy hum-ble footstool laid. 2 . Long hadst thou reigned ere time be - gan, Or dust was fashioned in-to man; And long thy kingdom shall endure When earth and time shall be no more.

JERICHO.
L. M.

1. Je - ho-vah reigns, he dwells in light, Gird-ed with ma-jes -ty and might : The world, cre-a-ted by his hands, still on its first foun-da - tion stands. 2. But ere this spacious world was made, Or had its first foun-da - tion laid, Thy throne e-ter-nal a - ges stood, Thyself the ev-er-liv-ing God.

ABARIM. L. M.

3. Oh! may our ar - dent zeal em - ploy Our loftiest thoughts, and loudest songs; Let there be sung, with warmest joy, Ho - san-na from ten thousand tongues

CHANT. The Lord's Prayer.

Our Father who art in heaven;
Hallowed be thy name :
Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven :
Give us this day our daily bread:
And forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us:
And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil;
For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever and ever.
