THE SHIP O' THE FIEND

"O where hae ye been, my lang-lost lover,
This seven lang years and mair?"
"O I'm come again to seek your love
An' the vows that ye did swear."

"Now haud your tongue o' my love and vows,
For they can breed but strife;
Now haud your tongue o' my former vows,
For I am anither man's wife."

* * * * *

"O fause are the vows o' womankind,
But fair is their fause bodie;
I wad never hae trodden on Irish ground
Were it no for the love o' thee!

* * * * *

"Ye may leave your husband to himsel',
And your little son also,
And sail wi' me across the sea,
Sae fair the wind doth blow.

* * * * *

"See ye not yon seven pretty ships -
The eighth brought me to land -
With merchandize and mariners,
And music on every hand?"

"There's mantles warm to wrap my love,
O' the silk and soft velvet,
And rich attires to deck her head,
And costly shoon for he feet"

* * * * *

She has drawn the slippers on her feet,
Weel wrought wi' threads of gold,
And he's wrapt her round wi' the soft velvet,
To haud her frae the cold.

"O how do you like the ship?" he said
"Or how do you like the sea?
And how do you like the bold mariners
That wait upon thee and me?"

"O weel I like the ship," she said,
"And weel I like the sea;
But where are a' your mariners?
I see nane but thee and me."

They hadna sailed a league, a league,
A league, but barely three,
When eerie grew the lift above,
And gurly grew the sea.

She hadna sailed a league, a league,
A league, but barely three;
When she espied his cloven hoof,
And wept right biterlie.

* * * * *

"O what hills are yon, yon pleasant hills,
That the sun shines sweetly on?"
"O yon are the hills of Heaven," he said,
Where you will never win."

"O whatna mountain is yon?" she said,
"Sae dreary wi' frost and snow?"
"O yon is the mountain o' Hell," he cried,
Where you and I maun go!"

* * * * *

The clouds grew black, and the wind grew loud,
And the levin filled her e'e;
And waesome wailed the snaw-white sprites
Out o'er the roaring sea.

He strack the mainmast wi' his hand,
The foremast wi' his knee:
He split the gallant ship in twain,
And sank her in the sea.

The musical score consists of six staves labeled Vc1 through Vc6. Vc1, Vc2, and Vc3 play similar parts, each starting with a crescendo marking, followed by a sforzando (sf) peak and then a piano (pp) section. Vc4 has a rest for the first two measures, then enters with a triplet figure. Vc5 and Vc6 have more melodic lines with accents and dynamics like mezzo-forte (mf) and crescendo. There are also some double bar lines and repeat signs throughout the score.
