This musical score consists of two systems, each with four staves. The first system covers measures 26 to 30, and the second system covers measures 31 to 35. Each staff begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one flat (B-flat), and a common time signature (C). The notation includes various note values (quarter, eighth, and sixteenth notes), rests, and accidentals (sharps and naturals). The music is written in a standard Western musical notation style, with a vertical bar line at the end of each system.
