O LIGHT OF ALL THE WORLD.

The ways of life are dark and long
And shadows round us lie,
How often do we travel here
Beneath a starless sky.
But though the night be deep and long,
The hope of dawn must rise,
And soon we dream, a brighter day
Will break before our eyes.

Rise like the sun, O Light of all the world,
Rise in your splendour, through the darkness shine,
Show us the way that leads to God at last,
O Light of all the world, O Light divine!

The songs of life that we must sing
Are often sad with tears,
We strive to find a melody
To fill with joy the years.
But as we bravely journey on,
We dream that, waiting past,
Unto our lips a song shall rise
Of hope and love at last.
